Occupational Therapy

OT Australia
Council of Occupational Therapy Boards

There are eight states and territories in Australia, only four of which have registration. These are Queensland, Northern Territory, South Australia and Western Australia.

If you wish to practice in any of these states you will need to contact the relevant Occupational Therapy Registration Board. In the four states without registration, New South Wales, Australian Capital Territory, Victoria and Tasmania, you are eligible to practice once you have successfully completed the COTRB practice audit.

Psychology

Australian Psychological Society Ltd

To work as a psychologist in Australia you are legally required to be registered, in the same way medical practitioners and solicitors must register to practice. If you are provisionally registered or eligible for provisional registration, we may also be able to employ you dependent on the role/location.
